

Interpreting in the NDIS landscape

Working together to support our Canberra colleagues

Why?

With the advent of NDIS, there has been much talk about interpreting decisions and behaviours when working in this context. It is important that as interpreters our professional and ethical decisions are made in a way that empowers deaf clients. There seems to be different views about what our role and responsibilities are as interpreters, thus a need for a workshop

What will we discuss?

- ndis Qualified interpreters and/or unqualified communication aides?
- ndis Interpreting in social settings?
- ndis Expectations of participants, stake holders and interpreters

- ndis Power dynamics of interpreters, NDIA reps and deaf participants?
- ndis Who pays for what in the NDIS world (dinner etc)?
- ndis Interpreting decisions that empower or do a disservice to deaf consumers?

What will the day be like?

We would like this workshop to provide a safe place to talk about our work, with enough time to have a talk fest.
